During the 2022-2023 Academic Year, 88 percent of all family medicine residents participated in scholarly activities. Over half the residents were involved in greater than three scholarly activities in total. Four residents represented Mercy Health-St. Rita's Medical Center at the Family Medicine Education Consortium in addition to two faculty members. Family medicine faculty guide the residents through their endeavors as well as participate in activities of their own which include peer review and research. Between faculty and residents, 76 total scholarly activities were performed during the academic year.
